PRESS RELEASE

January 25, 2010

Two students from Coventry High School have been awarded honorable mention at the Connecticut Art Education Association's Scholastic Art Awards for 2010. Matt Brissette was awarded for his oil painting and Ashli-Nicole Levesque was awarded for her black and white photography.

The Connecticut Art Education Association, Inc. is a professional organization which represents the art teachers of the state. Its goals include promoting visual arts as an essential component of educational programs, improving the conditions of teaching art, and sharing and encouraging effective teaching practices in art education. Students from all over the state competed in the competition.

Awards Ceremony: Sunday, January 31, 2010 from 2:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Lincoln Theater, University of Hartford, 200 Bloomfield Avenue, West Hartford, Connecticut.

Exhibition: Sunday, January 17 – Friday, February 5, 2010
Slip Gallery, Hartford Art School, 200 Bloomfield Avenue, West Hartford, Connecticut.
